

RSHE (Relationships, Sex and Health Education) Policy

Reviewed: January 2022

Next Review due: January 2024

Reviewed by: C. Dorricott-Juniper, RSHE/ PSHE Co-ordinator

Contents

1	Rationale and ethos	1
2	Roles and responsibilities	2
3	Legislation (statutory regulations and guidance)	3
4	Curriculum design	4
5	Safe and effective practice	5
6	Safeguarding
7	Monitoring, reporting and evaluation	5
8	Review date	6
	endix 1: Statutory learning objectives each child should be taught by the end of Year 6 taken from Guidance Document	7
	endix 2: Curriculum overview of PSHE and how we cover the statutory RSHE objectives across the pol in both PSHE and Science
App	endix 3: Science planning Years 5&6	10
App	endix 4: Pupil reflection sheet example	11
Арр	endix 5: Template Withdrawal from Sex Education Letter	11
App	endix 6: Sex Education curriculum	1 2

1 Rationale and ethos

This policy covers our school's approach to the teaching of Relationships, Health and Sex Education (RSHE). It was produced by Cassandra Dorricott-Juniper (PSHE/RSHE Coordinator) in consultation with the Headteacher. RSHE enables children to learn the key constituents of a healthy life, what a healthy, nurturing relationship looks like and what makes a good friend or any other type of committed relationship. Sex education helps children to understand the physical and emotional aspects of puberty and human reproduction. Government guidance on the teaching of these subjects is outlined below.

Schools will be required to teach:

- relationships education (all primary aged pupils)
- relationships and sex education (all secondary aged pupils)
- health education (all pupils in state-funded schools only)

However, at Windlesham School, we believe that all three components are essential to helping children develop into confident adults equipped to lead fulfilling lives.

In light of the recent Ofsted Review of Sexual Abuse in Schools and Colleges it was deemed paramount that children at Windlesham School are taught acceptable relationship behaviour and codes of conduct. The OFSTED review found that 'sexual harassment and online abuse is very prevalent - to the extent that incidents are so commonplace that some children see no point in reporting them.' The report highlights that 'nearly 90% of girls, and nearly 50% of boys, said being sent explicit pictures or videos of things they did not want to see, happens a lot or sometimes to them or their peers and 92% of girls, and 74% of boys, said sexist name-calling happens a lot or sometimes to them or their peers. The frequency of these harmful sexual behaviours means that some children and young people consider them normal.'

A recommendation from the report is that schools should adopt 'a behavioural approach, including sanctions when appropriate, to reinforce a culture where sexual harassment and online sexual abuse are not tolerated'. At Windlesham, we fully support a teaching programme which also focuses on acceptable behaviours. This is taught in the strands of the PSHE curriculum titled 'Families and people who care for me, Caring friendships, Respectful relationships, Online relationships and Being safe'. Please refer to Appendix 1 for the RSHE statutory learning objectives each child should be taught by the end of Year 6, taken from Dfe guidance document. Appendix 2 details how we cover these across the school ie what are the topics and timelines.

The PSHE Co-coordinator will review the policy every two years or as necessary in response to any statutory updates to ensure that it remains in line with current government guidance and legislation and to ensure that our RHSE programme continues to meet the needs of our pupils. The policy should be read in conjunction with other relevant policies: PSHE Policy, Online Safety Policy and Safeguarding Policy, all available on the school website.

RSHE Policy

While RSHE is closely aligned to the subject known as PSHE, owing to the differences in the content taught, it is defined within this policy separately to PSHE. Through our delivery of RSHE, we enable children to achieve our school vision, which is to 'promote joy in learning, pride in achievement and respect for others.'

RSHE forms part of the Personal, Social, Health and Education curriculum in our school. RSHE is not timetabled as a separate subject, and the majority of RSHE is taught throughout the year. However, each summer term is dedicated to solely teaching RSHE in all year groups. In RSHE, pupils will learn about what makes healthy relationships in a way that is age appropriate and sensitive to their faith. The content will include online relationships, how their bodies develop, what is acceptable and not acceptable behaviour within a relationship, and how to seek help if they feel unsafe. Delivery of the syllabus will respect the diversity of families in our community. Pupils are encouraged to engage fully in RSHE lessons and treat others with respect and sensitivity, as we expect children and adults to do at all times in school. There will be a letter sent home to parents before the start of the summer term outlining the content taught to their child relative to their age. There is an opt out option for parents if they feel they would not like their child to be taught this and they will be invited in to discuss this further with the Headteacher and PSHE Coordinator.

2 Roles and responsibilities

The RSHE programme is led by the PSHE Coordinator, Cassandra Dorricott Juniper, with the support of the Senior Leadership Team. Lessons will be delivered by class teachers.

The Governing body

The Governing body will approve the RSHE policy, and hold the Headteacher to account for its implementation.

The Headteacher

The Headteacher is responsible for ensuring that relationships education is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw pupils from non-statutory sex education lessons, if applicable.

Staff

Staff are responsible for:

- delivering relationships education in a sensitive way, taking into account pupils' family and faith backgrounds
- modelling positive attitudes to relationships education, as with any other subject
- monitoring children's learning in order to ensure they make progress
- adjusting their teaching according to the needs of individual pupils responding appropriately to pupils whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the nonstatutory sex education lessons, if applicable. Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching relationships education. Staff who have concerns about teaching this subject are encouraged to seek support

Engaging stakeholders

As a school we are aware that the primary responsibility for providing children's RSHE rests equally with the school and with parents and carers. Parents and carers are the first teachers of their children. They have the most significant influence in enabling their children to grow and mature and to form healthy relationships. We recognise the need to work with parents and carers to ensure a shared understanding of RSHE and to deliver an effective programme that meets the needs of all our pupils. For this reason, we encourage parents to engage in the consultation process while the policy remains in draft. Parents are also invited to request further information about the specific syllabus being delivered, to meet with us, and as mentioned previously, if they desire, to opt their children out of sex education lessons (barring those which are delivered as part of the mandatory science curriculum. Please see Appendix 8 for a template withdrawal letter which will be shared with parents before non-statutory content is shared.

Teachers' views and pupil voice will be also be invited to review and tailor our approach to RSHE. Pupils are invited to complete feedback forms at the end of each year. Feedback forms are analysed by the PSHE Coordinator, shared with staff and are used to inform any changes to the policy, procedures or curriculum that need to be implemented.

3 Legislation (statutory regulations and guidance)

From "The Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019, made under sections 34 and 35 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017 we know that; RSHE is mandatory in all maintained primary schools. At Windlesham we include Health education in PSHE. An outline of how we teach this can be found in the PSHE policy, but the sex education component, is not compulsory in primary schools and primary schools should teach about relationships and health, including puberty.

The content set out in this guidance covers everything that primary schools should teach about relationships and health, including puberty. The government has created 5 key areas that each child should be taught by the end of Year 6.

- families and people who care for me
- caring friendships
- respectful relationships
- online relationships
- being safe

Documents that inform the RSHE policy are:

Education Act (1996)

Learning and Skills Act (2000)

Education and Inspections Act (2006)

Equality Act (2010)

Keeping children safe in education- statutory safeguarding guidance (2021)

Children and Social Work Act (2017)

Review of sexual absure in school and colleges (2021)

At Windlesham School we are respectful of all protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010. Protected characteristics are age, disability, gender reassignment, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation, marriage and civil partnership and pregnancy and maternity. Moreover, lessons are LGBT+ inclusive and SEND inclusive by being mindful of the SEND Code of Practice 2014 when planning for this subject.

When discussing family units, we present a range of family structures including; same sex couples, heterosexual couples, adopted families, carers and single parent families. There are a variety of stories including these different family structures located in each classroom and the library and are used as a basis to teach about families and relationships.

4 Curriculum design

At Windlesham school we are committed to preparing children for life. This also means preparing children to understand the nature of relationships and preparing them to be more confident and functional members of their community. We believe that an effective RSHE curriculum can make a significant contribution to the development of personal skills. See Appendix 1 for the key objectives of the statutory RSHE curriculum.

Across all Key Stages, pupils will be supported to develop the following skills as appropriate to their age:

- communication skills
- an understanding of and the ability to form positive relationships including self-respect, showing respect and empathy towards others, and helping to diminish peer on peer abuse as highlighted in the recent OFSTED review.
- recognising and assessing potential risks
- · managing conflict and regulating emotions

At Windlesham, RSHE lessons are taught from Reception to Year 6. We use the GoGivers scheme and the Feeling Good, Feeling Safe, document to implement RSHE. Through our delivery of weekly PSHE and RSHE lessons we significantly contribute to the school's safeguarding and equality duties, the government's British values agenda and the SMSC development opportunities provided for our children.

During every summer term, all year groups learn Feeling Good, Feeling Safe, which is a whole school approach to preventing violence and abuse and aims to support pupils from Reception to Year 6 to learn the skills to keep themselves safe and to ensure they can get help if they need it. In addition, as a school and in consultation with governors, we have designed a Sex Education curriculum which features a graduated approach to teaching children about body parts, body awareness, puberty, reproduction, safe and unsafe touch, gender identity and female genital mutilation (FGM). For some of the lessons, starting in Year 4, the girls and boys will be separated, but both groups will still be taught the same content. This RSHE Policy is done so children feel more comfortable asking questions, i.e. when discussing periods, girls may feel more comfortable to discuss and ask questions in front of other girls. If there is a matter of a transgender child being in the class, the Headteacher and PSHE Coordinator will have a conversation with the parents and child to discuss how best to proceed. Please refer to Appendix 7 for a matrix of the graduated Sex Education curriculum and to Appendix 3 the Science units taught in Years 5 and 6 which relate to Sex Education.

Our Sex Education curriculum is based on protective behaviours, an evidence-based programme with two core themes:

- "We all have the right to feel safe all the time"
- "We can talk with someone about anything, even if it feels awful or small"

5 Safe and effective practice

All staff teaching RSHE will be supported by the PSHE coordinator, Cassandra Dorricott Juniper. Sensitive issues will be handled with care and children will always be given the option to leave the room if they need to. Pupils' questions will be answered openly and honestly by their teachers, providing children with the age appropriate, relevant information they need. A safe learning environment will be created by both teachers and students agreeing to ground rules before commencing their lessons. Some examples of ground rules are:

- We will be respectful and sensitive of one other
- We will listen to one another
- We will be open to others' opinions
- We will be kind to one another

6 Safeguarding

All members of staff who deliver any of our RSHE programme, have statutory training around safeguarding children and are all aware of our school's Safeguarding Policy and procedures in the case of a disclosure or suspicion of a safeguarding concern.

Teachers are aware that effective RSHE, which brings an understanding of what is and what is not appropriate in a relationship, can lead to a disclosure of a child protection issue. Teachers will follow the safeguarding procedure set out in the Safeguarding Policy. Teachers will consult with the designated Safeguarding Lead, or in their absence, the Deputy Safeguarding Lead.

7 Monitoring, reporting and evaluation

Teachers will use the PSHE planning document for each half term to plan and teach RSHE lessons. There is an end of unit evaluation which each teacher completes, allowing them to reflect on their work and delivery of RSHE. This reflection is critical to ensuring the delivery of RSHE. As part of our assessment of PSHE and RSHE, we have introduced a pupil reflection sheet. See Appendix 4 for an example.

Progress and engagement in RSHE is reported to parents through yearly reports and termly grade sheets under PSHE. Moreover, parents are encouraged to email teachers through info@windleshamschool.co.uk if they have any queries about RSHE.

The delivery of RSHE is monitored by the PSHE Coordinator through:

- termly Learning walks
- CPD sessions focused on sharing good practice and moderating work
- Book scrutiny
- The subject development plan by the PSHE Coordinator

8 Review date

The policy will be reviewed biannually by the PSHE Coordinator and Headteacher or more frequently if required by changes in legislation. The next review date is January 2024.

Appendices

Appendix 1: Statutory learning objectives each child should be taught by the end of Year 6 taken from Dfe Guidance Document

the that families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and or me stability. 1b • the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives. 1 1c • that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d • that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e • that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f • how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. 2aring Pupils should know 2a • how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b • the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c • that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d • that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e • how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a • the importance of respecting others, even when they are very di		By the end of primary school:
teople who care 1a* that families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and or me stability. 1b* the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives. 1 1c* that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d* that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e* that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f* how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. 2a* how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b* the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c* that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d* that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e* how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a* the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for	Families and	Pupils should know stability. 1b• the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives. 1 1c• that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. 2aring Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of differe		· ·
difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives. 1 1c• that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to impr	for me	stability.
spending time together and sharing each other's lives. 1 1c+ that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d+ that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e+ that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f+ how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. 2a- how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b+ the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c+ that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d+ that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e+ how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a+ the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b+ practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c+ the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own		1b• the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of 1c• that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to th	I	difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care. 1d • that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e • that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f • how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a • how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b • the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c • that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d • that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e • how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a • the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b • practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c • the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d • the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e • that in school and in wider society they can expect to be tr	I	spending time together and sharing each other's lives. 1
families are also characterised by love and care. 1d * that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e * that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f * how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a * how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b * the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c * that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d * that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e * how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a * the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b * practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c * the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d * the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e * that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, inclu	I	1c• that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from
1d• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families, and are important for children's security as they grow up. 1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	families are also characterised by love and care.
1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	1d• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy
other which is intended to be lifelong. 1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	families, and are important for children's security as they grow up.
If• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	1	1e• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each to seek help or advice from others if needed. Pupils should know 2a how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Respectful elationships Respectful as the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	other which is intended to be lifelong.
Pupils should know 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	1f• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how riendships 2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends. 2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	 	to seek help or advice from others if needed.
and make friends. 2b • the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c • that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d • that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e • how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Respectful elationships 3a • the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b • practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c • the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d • the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e • that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	Caring	Pupils should know
2b• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	friendships	2a• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Respectful elationships 3e• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	1	and make friends.
problems and difficulties. 2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	2b● the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness,
2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with feel lonely or excluded. 2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	problems and difficulties.
2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Respectful elationships Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	2c• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Respectful elationships Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	1	feel lonely or excluded.
right. 2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	2d• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so
2e• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed. Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I
Pupils should know 3a• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I all the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.
example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	the state of the s	· different preferences or beliefs. 3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	relationships
3b• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I
relationships. 3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I
3c• the conventions of courtesy and manners. 3d• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I
3d • the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. 3e • that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	· ·
3e● that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I	l ·
that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.	I
	1
		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
		about different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult) and how to get help.		1 3f• what a stereotype is, and how stereotypes can be unfair, negative or destructive.
3g• the importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers and adults. SHE Policy Page 7	SHE Policy

Online	Pupils should know
relationships	4a• that people sometimes behave differently online, including by pretending to be someone they are not.
	4b• that the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to face relationships, including the importance of respect for others online including when we are anonymous. 4c• the rules and principles for keeping safe online, how to recognise risks, harmful content and contact, and how to report them.
	4d• how to critically consider their online friendships and sources of information including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met.
	4e• how information and data is shared and used online
Being safe	Pupils should know
	5a• what sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including in a digital context).
	5b• about the concept of privacy and the implications of it for both children and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe.
	5c• that each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe physical, and other, contact.
	5d• how to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online) whom they do not know.
	5e• how to recognise and report feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult.
	5f• how to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard.
	5g • how to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so.
	5h• where to get advice e.g. family, school and/or other sources.

Appendix 2: Curriculum overview of PSHE and how we cover the statutory RSHE objectives across the school in both PSHE and Science

Key:

- Families and people who care for me
- Caring friendships
- Respectful relationships
- Online relationships
- Being safe.
- Science

	Year 1	Year 2	Year 3	Year 4	Year 5	Year 6
Autumn 1	nique to (How to	Learning Styles. Friendship focus unique to class. 2c Resilience - bouncing back.	Learning Styles. Friendship focus unique to class. 2c Peer pressure stereotypes 3g,3f	Learning Styles. Friendship focus unique to class 2c. Children's	Learning Styles. Friendship focus	Class rules. Learning Styles. Friendship focus unique to class. Rights and Responsibilities.

г	1					26
			Anti-Bullying -3f	, 0		Anti-Bullying 3f
	3b	Law - Anna's				How to ask for advice or help, where to get advice from. 5h/2e
	ets	The power of	body belong to	seeking 3h	including cyberbullyi
	3f 3e	giving	them linked to		ng & bystanders	CITIZENSHIP AND THE WIDER WORLD &
	6,3	How families look	self respect. 5c	How to ask for	Magna Carta.	BEING PART OF A SCHOOL COMMUNITY
	He in g	different around	IPollution:	advice or	Respecting all our	How to recognise if family relationships
	Aduming The Selfish Hen. 3f Taking Responsibility (Caring for Pets) Caring for our Community. 3b,3e Taking Responsibility.	the world and in	Expedition to	help, where to get	differences –	are making them feel unhappy or unsafe
	y (C		Planet Blueball	advice from.		and how to seek advice. 1f
	e S iii m	community. Discus		5h/2e	to marriage and
	Sib Sib	s how families are		,	discuss same sex
	Adumin 2 Anti-Bullying - The Sel Taking Responsibility Caring for our Commu Taking Responsibility.	different around		Safe in Cyber	couples 1c
١.	yir or c	the world ie:		Space; Inspiring
ľ	Auti-Bull Anti-Bull Taking Re Caring fo Taking Re	adopting, same sex		stories of young
1.	Ki Fi Fi Fi	parents. 1c		fundraisers 4c
١.	An An Ca	parents. 10		runuraisers 40
F	†	Internet Safety. 4c	Internet Safety	Internet	Internet Safety	Internet Safety-USING TECHNOLOGY FOR
		Friendships - More		Safety. 4c,4d	(Keeping Safe in	GOOD 4c,4d
					Cyberspace.) 4c,4d	DEMOCRACY - PART 1 DEMOCRACY - friend (different			Know how	PART 2
				de; Debates/different		DEMOCRACY - PART 3
	္ မ က်
	` ·=		online. 5e	opinions -	data is shared and	Gandhi (working for peace).
	pping 1 Internet Safety. Litter, pollution Pedestrian train		Community -	(Conscience	used online. 4e
	Safe Ilut n t			·	Heroes - Martin
١,	et 9 po tria			Against.); Climate	Luther King.
	er in Est	•	al citizen	change	Mary Seacole &
T,	John Litter, K	Me . 1a,1b	- GoGivers Park. 3		Florence
Ľ	·		b		Nightingale.
	Managing		Environment -	GOGIVERS:		Handling Stress.
	Anger. 5a	POLLUTION	(The Earth in Our			WHAT IS AN INFECTIOUS
			Hands.) (What	Opportunities. 3a	to groups.	DISEASE?PREVENTING INFECTIOUS
	Characteristic of		kind of Farming).			Stable, caring relationships=heart of happy healthy family		Refugees	Gift of Sight.		families, important for children's security life- protections	How to recognise			Trade after Brexit.	as they grow up. Challenge stereotypical
	and care	who to trust, how				family units, discuss same sex relationships
	for chn and	to judge if a			Jealousy.	and different ways of conceptions ie: IVF,
	importance of	friendship is				surrogacy. 1d making them			Science: Sexual and	Marriage= legally recognised commitment together. Challe	unhappy & how to			asexual reproduction	to two people. 1e
	nge nuclear	seek advice or			of plants.
	family	support if			,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,
	stereotype (ie:	needed. 2e
•	single parents,
1	stereotype (ie: single parents, same sex parents). 1b
4	parents). 1b
Ţ	Feeling Good,	Feeling	Feeling Good,	Feeling Good,	Feeling Good,	Sex Ed - Feeling Good, Feeling Safe.
				Feeling	Feeling	5a,5c,5e
	Safe. 5a,5c,5e			Safe. 5a,5c,5e		RSHE.(AO/AT)
		GUE: THE POWER	. ,		Sex Ed	Family Life, challenging stereotypes 3g,
		OF WORDS				dilemmas (ECa)
						Science: Evolution and Inheritance biology: DNA - what is it? Who discovered it? What is variation? What 1
	Ĭ					are inherited traits? What
1.						are adapative traits? What is mutation?
Ľ	"[Why does it happen?

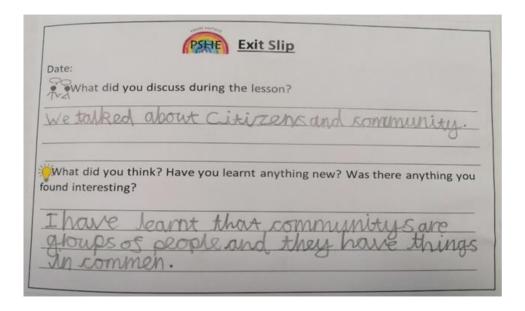

Disability 3a.	RESILIENCE:	Sharing, generori	Transition.	Economic Well-being	,
Going on a Bear	BOUNCING BACK	sty - Chicken	History of the	inspiring stories:	Online relationships- people can behave
Hunt (sight).	MONEY - WANTS	Soup. Charitable	Olympics.	young fundraisers.	differently online (pretending to be Self reflection	AND NEEDS	Giving.	Inspiring people -	Why do we pay	someone they're not). 4a
and self	Transition.	Water Our Most	Mo Farah, Jessica	taxes?	Should still treat people with respect
esteem 3d - All		Precious	Ennis (Focus	The Benefits	online- cyberbullying. 4b
About Me.		Resource?	on reslience and	System.
Transition.		Transition.	motivation.)	Transition	Fake news & sources of information 4d
			Tolerance -	Science: Animals	(ECa)
			keeping an open	including humans:
			mind. 3a	the circulatory	Science:Sexual Education: safe
7				system linking	relationships, puberty and what that ie i				lungs and heart	means for girls and boys-menstruation,
Ē				systems.	conception, labour, birth.
3				,

Appendix 3: Science planning Years 5&6

The national curriculum for Science also includes subject content in related areas, such as the main external body parts, the human body as it grows from birth to old age (including puberty) and reproduction in some plants and animals. p.23 (Dfe RSHE).

	Year 5	Year 6
Autumn 1	Forces: identifying ground force, gravity, balanced forces, Investigating friction, water and air resistance through scientific enquiry.	Light: How we see light and ight sources. What is a reflection? Refraction and the colour spectrum - Newton's Theory of colour Fun with filters.
Autumn 2	Earth and Space: Spherical Bodies The Planets Geocentric v Heliocentric How day and night occur Phases of the Moon.	Electricity: introduction of circuits. Learning and identification of circuit symbols Investigation into voltage and effects on bulb brightness. Planning and undertaking of investigation decided upon by children.
Spring 1	Properties of Materials: testing of different properties Enquiries and investigations testing the different including conductors and insulators. Useful new materials.	Living Things and their habitats: Identify different types of animals and how they are classified. Discuss and introduce Linnaen system of classification. Microorganisms and investigating their optimum conditions.
Spring 2	Properties of Materials: testing of different properties Enquiries and investigations testing the different including conductors and insulators. Useful new materials.	Living Things and their habitats: Identify different types of animals and how they are classified. Discuss and introduce Linnaen system of classification. Microorganisms and investigating their optimum conditions.
Summer 1	Living Things and their habitats: life cycles including plants, humans, mammals, amphibians. Sexual and asexual reproduction of plants. Seeds and methods of seed dispersal.	Evolution and Inheritance biology: DNA - what is it? Who discovered it? What is variation? What are inherited traits? What are adapative traits? What is mutation? Why does it happen?
Summer 2	Animals including humans: the circulatory system linking lungs and heart systems. Identifying different food groups and their functions. Effects of exercise on pulse rate. Effects of drugs and alcohol on the body.	Sexual Education: safe relationships, puberty and what that means for girls and boys-menstruation, conception, labour, birth.

Appendix 4: Pupil reflection sheet example

Appendix 5: Template Withdrawal from Sex Education Letter

[Date]

Dear Parents and Carers,

I do not wish (pupil name)

Education lessons during the Summer term.

In the summer term, your child will be taking part in lessons dedicated to the RSHE curriculum. As part of the RSHE curriculum, your child will be taught Sex Education themes relevant and appropriate to their age. The themes we will address are listed below.

- •
- •

If you have any questions or would like to discuss these themes further, please email info@windleshamschool.co.uk to arrange a time to discuss this with Miss Dorricott Juniper (PSHE coordinator) and/ or Mr Ingrassia.

Moreover, if this is something you do not wish your child to take part in, please fill out the form below and submit to the office before the end of the first week of the summer term. Please note that sex education, which forms part of the Science curriculum (as indicated in appendix 3 of RSHE policy), remains statutory.

Kind regards,
Miss Dorricott Juniper
PSHE Coordinator

Request to Withdraw from Lessons

Parent Signature_____ Date _____

RSHE Policy Page 11

_ in (class)____ to take part in the Sex

Appendix 6: Sex Education curriculum

Yr1	Yr2	Yr3	Yr4	Yr5	Yr6
anus, nipples. Teacher will reinfoce notion of private parts and relate this to safe and unsafe touch.	Teacher will reinforce toilet hygiene	Additional names introduced; testicles, pubic area. Children able to use accurate terminology to label body parts with support.	Children able to use accurate terminology to label external body parts independently. Internal body parts introduced which are relevant to the teaching of menstruation.	Children can identify all main external and internal body parts independently and begin to understand function of these.	Children can identify the external genitalia and internal reproductive organs in male and females and how the process of puberty relates to human reproduction. Children will discuss differences in human shapes and forms and the importance of having a positive perception of their bodies.
Children know the different phases of life: baby, toddler, child, teenager, adult and begin to discuss differences	become an adult. Height, hair,	Children introduced to the term 'puberty', a word which indicates changes to the body. Children will be taught that puberty happens at different times for everyone and that puberty is when a child's body begins to transition into an adult's body.	Children discuss puberty and how this relates to changes to the body, specifically the effect of hormones on the body, including periods. Children are taught the same content but split into boy/girl groups for short discussion sessions to allow them to feel more comfortable to ask questions. Boys will also understand about periods.	Children understand in greater detail the physical and emotional changes that happen when approaching puberty (including menstruation, erection, wet dreams). Children are taught the same content but split into boy/girl groups for short discussion sessions to allow them to feel more comfortable to ask questions. Boys will also understand about periods.	Children discuss effects of puberty in more detail ie: acne body hair, voice breaking, body odour-children understand why this happens and the importance of hygiene. When discussing periods, children are given a more detailed explanation in Science of the menstrual cycle and of different sanitary products. Girls shown 'period box' which has a collection of different sanitary products for them to explore and ask questions about-children split into boy/girl groups for short discussion sessions to allow them to feel more comfortable asking questions. Boys will also understand about periods. Boys will also be shown the 'period box' and understand about periods.
different and have different structures including same sex	Children know families can look different and have different structures including same sex parents, children know that families can have babies from adoption.	Children explore family structures in more detail. Children explore other types of family structures they are familiar with.	Children explore the traits which are common to all families. These may include mutual support, love, respect Families do not have to be genetically related. Children are introduced to the idea that other forms of reproduction allow families to be created - IVF, surrogacy	Children can identify the external genitalia and internal resproductive organs in male and females and and begin to explore and discuss how the process of puberty relates to human reproduction.	Children will review information learnt in year 5 discuss human reproduction in greater detail.
Children discuss 'My body belongs to me'. Children know which parts of their body are private and shouldn't	Children know the PANTS* rule, continuing with theme of ' my body belongs to me'. Children know early warning signs, recognising different emotions and what that means.	Children review the NSPCC PANTS rule. Continue discussing 'My body belong to me'. Introduce consent to non-sexual touch ie tickling, touching hair Children know they have rights to their body which no one else has.	Children can recognise how to keep themselves and others safe and how to ask for help. Further discussion about consent and appropriate behaviour between friends.	Children learn there are 4 types of abuse (physical, sexual, emotional and neglect). Children know how to keep themselves safe and who to tell if they feel unsafe.	Children discuss consent in more detail and the importance of consent. Children review the concepts of abuse and discuss peer on peer abuse ie abuse through technology (illicit photos). Children are able to recognise risks and early warning signs.
7 *PANTS rule: Privates are priva	te/Always remember your body		Children know what FGM stands for and that it is illegal in UK.	Children know what FGM stands for and that it is illegal in UK.	Children understand the term 'transgender' and how this means that a person doesn't feel like their gender matches their biological sex at birth. Children know what FGM stands for and that it is illegal in UK.
9	Statutory Science curriculum				